

The London Interdisciplinary School

Data Retention Schedule

Introduction

The School's Data Retention Schedule sets out the time periods for which records should be retained by the School in order to meet its duty of care to its students, staff and applicants, to comply with its legal and regulatory requirements, including the General Data Protection Regulation and Data Protection Act, the Limitation Act 1980, UK Home Office regulations, and to comply with operational requirements. The Schedule has been drawn up in line with the JISC guidance on record retention for higher education organisations, as well as legal and regulatory requirements.

Definitions

A record is defined in the Records Management British Standard BS ISO 15489 as "Information created, received and maintained as evidence and information by an organization or person, in pursuance of legal obligations or in the transaction of business".

Scope

All records created and held by the School, both in paper and electronic form, and including data held in databases are subject to this data retention policy.

Schedule

The default action to be taken at the end of the retention period is the secure destruction or deletion of the record, except where the retention period is defined as permanent or where the record may be considered for retention for archival value.

Only one copy of each record needs to be kept for the full length of the retention period, unless there are operational reasons for the record being held in more than one School department. Duplicate and secondary copies should be destroyed as soon as they are no longer of immediate operational use, and in any case should be destroyed at the end of their retention period.

At the end of the specified retention period, departments are required to log what has happened to the document (i.e., destroyed or retained for archival value), and at what date this occurred.

The School's Data Retention Schedule provides generic guidance on the retention of common records generated by the School in the course of its normal work. It should be viewed as a guide in determining the retention period for particular document types. The retention periods are generally derived from JISC best practice, the provisions of the Limitation Act and other regulation relating to Data Protection and statutory benefits.

Employees should refer to the JISC Higher Education Records Retention Schedule ("Printable RSS") for a more detailed breakdown of records by function, activity and record group (<http://bcs.jiscinfonet.ac.uk/he/default.asp>). Staff may also refer to the JISC guidance on records management at: <https://www.jisc.ac.uk/guides/records-management>

The School will record and retain all personal data in compliance with data protection regulation to ensure confidentiality.

Records that can be routinely destroyed

Records that have no significant informational, operational or evidential value, and which are not subject to legal or statutory rules in relation to their retention, can be destroyed as soon as they have served their primary purpose. This will include, but will not be limited to:

- Requests for, and confirmations of, reservations for internal services (such as meeting rooms), where no internal charges have been made;
- Transmission documents (for example, cover sheets, routing slips, compliment slips and letters which accompany documents but do not add value to them);
- Superseded address lists or distribution lists;
- Snapshot printouts or extracts from databases;

- Personal diaries and address books;
- Working papers, where the results have been written into an official document, and are not required to support it;
- Stocks of in-house publications that are obsolete, superseded, or otherwise useless, such as magazines, prospectuses, directories, forms, and other materials produced for wide distribution.

Responsibilities

All staff are required to comply with the retention schedule set out in this Policy and linked documents (specifically the JISC Higher Education Records Retention Schedule). Where employees are unsure of the retention schedule for a record after consulting this policy and the JISC guidance, they should consult the School's Registrar.

Employees must inform the Registry Department of any specific timeframe that a particular record is required that sits outside the regulations set out in this Policy and in the JISC guidance. Where appropriate, the School's Data Retention Schedule will be modified.

Where records are scheduled to be destroyed, employees must do so carefully, through shredding or confidential waste collection.

Failure to comply with this policy could result in disciplinary procedures being raised.
